

CARROLL COUNTY

Carroll County, Tennessee, comprised of eight towns, boasts a population of 28,440. Strategically located two hours from Nashville, the nation's 21st-largest city, and Memphis, the 26th-largest, the county offers a blend of rural charm and urban convenience. It is home to Bethel University and the Tennessee College of Applied Technology in McKenzie, institutions that enrich the community's educational landscape. Leading the way in the arts in rural America, Carroll County features the Bethel Renaissance program and the Dixie Carter Performing Arts Center. Attractions such as the Shooting Sports Complex and Thousand Acre Recreational Lake have transformed Carroll County into a haven for families and outdoor enthusiasts. Offering small-town charm, residents with strong values, and proximity to urban centers with plentiful amenities and entertainment, Carroll County is an ideal place to call home.

SOUTHLAND SAFARI

Southland Safari offers educational experiences and family fun for all ages—right here in West Tennessee. Guided safari truck tours include sightings of wild animals from Africa, Asia, and Australia. Up-close and personal animal encounters offer a unique opportunity to personally learn about and interact with various exotic animal species. Plus, luxurious cabins offer a chance to unwind less than a mile from adventure opportunities. Tour and cabin reservations required.
